Welcome to 2018 and the start of another year of great programs from the MWFA. Our first dinner meeting will be held on February 22nd with Special Agent Kenneth "K.C." Bixby addressing the MWFA and the Chicago Midwest Chapter of NASF. Agent Bixby, from the Chicago FBI Office, will discuss Cyber Theft/Protecting Your Cyber World.

Cyber attackers have many faces, from local high school students to elaborate overseas operations. These hackers use various techniques that cause companies severe damage, and often, months go by without these breaches being discovered. Learn from an FBI expert how to identify a cyber breach, who to notify and what procedures to put in place to avoid such an intrusion.

The theft of intellectual property or trade secret information may cost the U.S. between $300-$400 billion dollars a year and can result in the net loss of millions of jobs. The protection of business data, engineering secrets, email accounts, customer lists, etc. is of great importance to our economy. This presentation will describe some of the cyber and insider threats to business that exist and suggest some possible mitigations. The presentation will also highlight the importance of working with the FBI and other law enforcement agencies to neutralize threats to business and academia.

During this presentation, you will learn the primary methods of computer intrusion and mitigations for protecting yourself against cyber and insider threats. You will also find out about the importance of leveraging state and federal resources to defeat these threats.

Cyber theft could be detrimental to a company, don't miss your opportunity to learn about safeguards to assist in protecting your company and yourself.
